MESSAGE

Director
CLCS

As with the previous editions, we are overjoyed to deliver the Spring 2023 CLCS Bulletin Volume-4, Issue-1 to you. CLCS was founded on the essential tenet of generating individuals who are academically self-assured, morally upright, and socially responsible, and it still holds true today.

Center for Language and Cultural Studies participates in a range of academic and extracurricular events in addition to its regular academic activities. CLCS work hard to develop both the student body and ourselves each semester. The Spring Bulletin of 2023 highlights our usual and multifaceted summer semester events.

AN OVERVIEW

Center for Language and Cultural Studies (CLCS) started its journey aiming to develop communicative skills and compatibility in this multilingual and interdependent world. Initially, CLCS started by offering courses on IELTS, Spoken English, GRE, TOEFL, English for Academic Purposes, etc

As the Center grew over time, it became committed to develop communicative competence and research in diverse languages, and it is currently working with Japanese, Chinese, French, Korean, Arabic, endangered South Asian languages etc. CLCS also offers a wide range of General Education Courses, and regularly organizes trainings, workshops, seminars concerning various areas of the general human sciences.

CLCS aspires to expand our horizons even further and take its activities to the next level in the coming semester.

Academic Courses by CLCS

1. English for Academic Purposes (EAP)

Total four EAP courses are conducted by the Center throughout the Bi-Semester, namely, EAP-009, EAP-101, EAP-103, and EAP 204. These courses are designed to prepare students to use English for their academic studies, and consequently for their professional needs in real life and work. These courses target the development of four key language competences i.e., speaking, listening, reading, and writing. All the courses vary in their target groups and difficulty levels. The Center also offers Lab courses designed specifically for EEE department, which is termed as EAP-204.

2. General Education (GED)

GED (General Education Development) courses are those which provide a common broad sense, well-rounded experience by exposure to a variety of curriculum areas. Three Major GED courses are:

i. Bangladesh Studies

This course focuses on History of Bengal from Ancient to Present time, Minority Ethnic Group of Bangladesh, Festivals and Religions of Bangladesh, Gender Education in Bangladesh, Economic System and Constitution of Bangladesh

ii. Functional Bengali Language and Literature

This course focuses on Old, Middle, and Modern Bangla Language and Literatures.

iii. History of the Emergence of Bangladesh

The course has been designed to facilitate the students in obtaining the inclusive idea about struggling past, diverse culture and heritage of Bangladesh in the light of long historical background. It will focus on the social, economic and political developments that have taken place before and since its independence in the 20th century. The students attending this course are expected to be made aware of the understanding of complex historical development by interconnecting the events which lead to the journey of Bangladesh.

Certificate Courses by CLCS

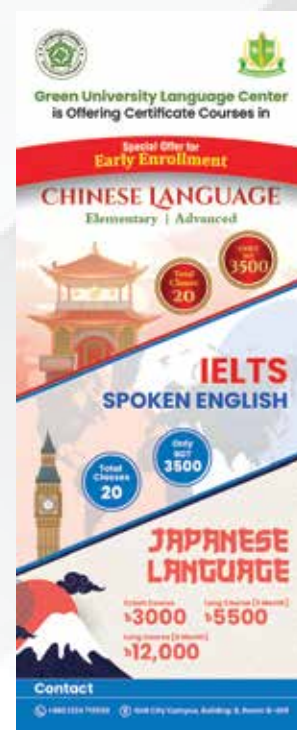

A comprehensive policy approved by the university is merged with the respective course proposal to recruit instructors for respective courses.

Certificate Courses by CLCS are:

i. Spoken English

Course

This four-month long program aims at preparing its participants globally by improving their speaking skill in English. It has specific learning outcomes, well designed course materials, phase by phase well scheduled 24 sessions, session management & assessment policies for its participants and instructors.

This four-month long program aims at preparing its participants globally by improving their speaking skill in English. It has specific learning outcomes, well designed course materials, phase by phase well scheduled 24 sessions, session management & assessment policies for its participants and instructors.

ii. IELTS Course

CLCS has introduced a certificate course on IELTS aiming to enable its participants to secure a high band score in real IELTS examination.

iii. Communicative English Course

It specifically focuses on the development of communicative skills of both students and administrative staff at GUB. As a part of that, aiming at developing the English language skills, CLCS has introduced a certificate course on Communicative English for its staff and students. The 'Communicative Program' has been designed with 20 classes; duration of each class is 120 minutes.

iv. Japanese Language Course

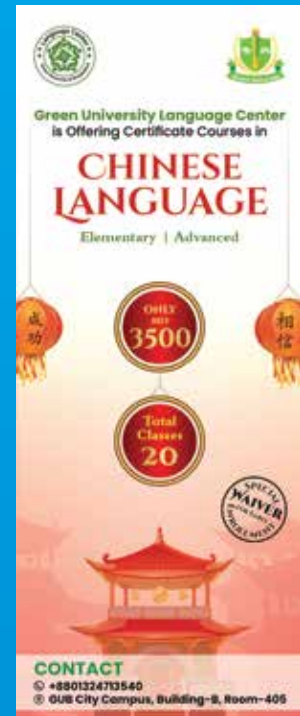

CLCS offers Japanese Language Program as a certificate course to the candidates, both internal and external to GUB, who are interested to sit for language aptitude tests (NAT or JLPT). The program has three modules based on the duration: (a) Crash Program: 6 days before the NAT-Test Day, (b) One-month, (c) Three-month Course, (d) Six-month Course

v. Chinese Language Course

Green University has MoUs with a number of Chinese universities. Every year a number students go for scholarship in any of the said universities. Hence, CLCS has introduced a Chinese Language program that aims at developing skills in speaking, writing, reading and listening of Chinese Language. The course is conducted for 4 months consisting of total 25 sessions (2 sessions per week), each of 2 hours duration.

vi. Pre-University English Language Course

In 2020, The Department of English and CLCS launched a free Pre- university English language certificate course for university admission hopefuls. Many fresh university students struggle with basic English despite their prior schooling. This basic course helps the students with some of the very basic ideas of the English language usage and also introduce many to the basics of listening and speaking skills which are often not sufficiently practiced during their pre-university schoolings. The students are offered a certificate upon the completion of the course after meeting the predetermined standards. This course is a great opportunity for us to offer our services to the community.

Non-Academic Activities

International Japanese Language Test / NAT-Test (Nihongo Aptitude Test) Conduction

CLCS conducts academic activities as well as some non-academic activities. International Japanese Language Test/NAT-Test is one of them. Conduction NAT-Test (Nihongo Aptitude Test) is a Japanese language testing system all over the world. Senmon Kyouiku Publishing Co-operates this test in 16 countries. In Bangladesh, Green University of Bangladesh is the only venue which has been serving since 2015. Center for Language and Cultural Studies (CLCS), formerly known as Green University Language Center, is solely leading the test ensuring the fair and sound examination with the cordial cooperation of all department and sections of the University.

The event came to an end with an optimistic note and gratitude towards everyone.

আদিবাসী সত্তা : নিজের ভাষায় নিজের কথা

Language itself is not only a communication tool for people to interpret themselves, but also constitutes a means of asserting one's identity. And for indigenous peoples, languages not only identify their origin or membership in a community, they also carry the ethical values of their ancestors – the indigenous knowledge systems that make them one with the land and are crucial to their survival and to the hopes and aspirations of their youth.

“আদিবাসী সত্তা: নিজের ভাষায় নিজের কথা” or “Indigenous Beings: Their Own Words” was successfully arranged on 23 February, 2023 at 3:30 pm in Green University City Campus.

Here, the students presented their respective Bangla, Chakma, Hajong, Marma, and Tripura linguistic heritage by performing solo and chorus songs, dance, recitation etc, both in their mother tongues and in translation for the audience. Later, Special Guests Brig. Gen. Md. Mahboob Sarwar Ph.D (Retd), registrar, Green University of Bangladesh and Ms. Elena Axinte, a Romanian world traveler, shared their reflections on this multilingual event and their experiences about various indigenous people in the world.

The event was hosted by Ms. Laboni Akter, Lecturer, Center for Language and Cultural Studies, Green University of Bangladesh. Dr. Serajum Munira, Associate Professor, Department of English and Director, Center for Language and Cultural Studies, Green University of Bangladesh graced the event with her presence and enriching welcome speech as the chief guest. The event came to an end with an optimistic note and gratitude towards all the indigenous people out there.

International Mother Language Day Quiz Competition 2023
